

TRIBUTE TO THE MILLIONS WHO GAVE THEIR LIVES toward the advancement of an enduring peace paid by President Harding as he placed a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown American Soldier at Arlington Cemetery

VICTORIOUS ENTRY of the Fascisti into Rome, led by Mussolini (shown in center wearing civilian clothes). One hundred and seventeen thousand members of that organization concentrated in Eternal City during demonstrations attending change in government rule

HUNDREDS OF WELL-WISHERS gathered before the door of ex-President Woodrow Wilson, extending Armistice Day greetings to the leader of the American people during the World War. The former President is shown above standing on the steps of his residence

ENGLAND'S WOMAN champion basketball player in action. Miss Marie Wilson catching the ball during practice in London

AT THE PICKERING HUNT. Furs replaced colorful fashion displays of earlier season at the ninth annual race meeting at Phoenixville. Women played for safety, despite warm rays of sun which flooded the broad panorama of the race course. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thomas Roach and Mrs. W. Foster Reeve, 3d, (pictured on the left) were among those present. Taking the hurdles during one of the events is shown in the center. On the right the camera caught Mrs. William J. Clothier giving directions of the course.

A ROYAL HANDSHAKE. The Prince of Wales greets girl competitors in recent sports festival at Stamford

MISS VERA BLOOM dedicates first Fascist emblem in U. S.

DR. S. W. STRATTON to head Mass. Inst. of Technology

MISS VIRGINIA NOBLE, six years old, unveiled Frankford Memorial

PROMINENT FIGURES IN RED CROSS ROLLCALL. Mrs. A. S. Weill, captain of four teams, is pictured on the left. On the right are: Miss Mabel Pusey and Miss Louise Weill, workers in the drive

MRS. WINIFRED BUCK, Chicago, only woman in Congress

SIR WILLIAM HORWOOD, Scotland Yard chief, suffering from poison

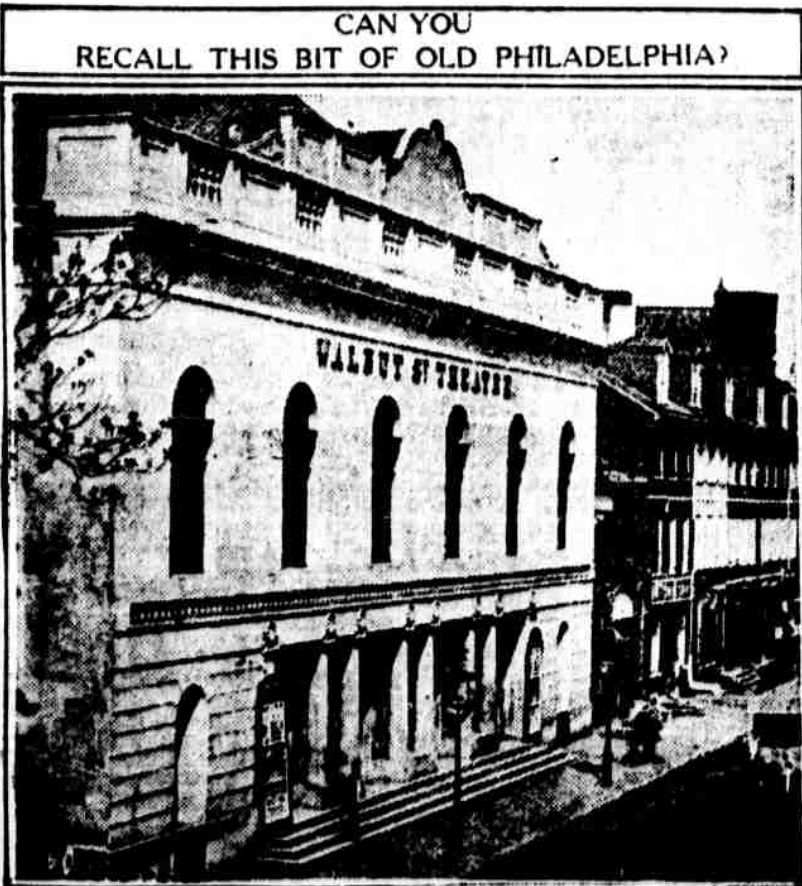

ERSKINE CHILDERS, Irish rebel leader, captured by Free State troops

CLEARING THE BAR FIRST. W. E. Stevenson, of Princeton, at the right, is shown winning the 120-yard hurdles at the Oxford University seniors' meet in England

OUT FOR CHAMPIONSHIP HOCKEY TEAM. A series of trial matches is being held at St. Martins Club, with the idea of selecting an all-Philadelphia team to enter the national tournament to be held Thanksgiving week, the first of its kind in this country. A bit of action during a try-out is pictured above. Miss Frances Elliot (shown on the left) acted as goalkeeper. On the right is Miss Eleanor Gardener, a promising prospect

A BITE BETWEEN HALVES. Fair rooters at the West Philadelphia-Northeast High School football game enjoying a snack. The Speedboys whitewashed the Northeast eleven 16 to 0

AN ANCIENT HORSE BUS is ambling leisurely up Walnut street in this picture of the old Walnut Street Theatre, at Ninth street, taken in 1880. Send us your old Philadelphia photographs

"A GOODLY CROWD WAS THERE" at the booze funeral held in Camden. Officer Charles Laife is shown on the left assisting at the obsequies of King Alcohol. On the right the police are pictured amassing casks and various containers of John Barleycorn

CROSSING THE FINISH. Walter Higgins, Columbia, winning intercollegiate run, beating Cornell, Dartmouth and U. of P.

ROOTERS AT THE PENN-PITT GAME. Miss Winifred Art was a Penn enthusiast. A view of the north stand discloses a group of Pitt fans waving handkerchiefs as Penn goes down to defeat by a single point, unable to escape the traditional "jinx"

